It's not quite the Tus Mahal, but the new Honors Residential Complex at Home Hall will have a few halls and a whole lot of something for the students who move in this fall.

The new 162,000-square-foot facility will house 600 students of all grade levels who were accepted into the University of Florida Honors Program out of high school.

The college was designed to foster a sense of community through the shared use of on-campus classrooms and meeting areas. Project Manager Hans Ferguson said, "It's more than just a dorm or hall. It's a residential college."

Ferguson said, "This concept brings students together and is designed to create a strong sense of belonging in the Honors Program.

HALL: Features larger living area

The new Honors Residence Hall is a 162,000-square-foot facility that will house 600 students across the University of Florida campus. The project will include classroom, lounge areas, and a large multi-purpose room.

Sharon Blanott, assistant director of housing, said, "We are excited to welcome our students to the new Home Hall and look forward to seeing the positive impact it will have on their college experience."

Features:
- Larger living areas
- More shared spaces
- Improved amenities

The new Home Hall is scheduled to open this fall and will provide a unique living environment for Honors students at the University of Florida. For more information, please visit the University of Florida Housing website.
