Course Description

Political comedy and satire have been viable forms of communication for centuries, providing an outlet for transmitting political commentary and opinion in both flattering and unflattering ways. In the contemporary era, there has been a rise in the use of political comedy on television, but there are numerous other outlets where satire and comedy shed light on political realities. Political cartoons, stand-up comedians, blogs and websites, social media and memes, and music or other live-art performances have the power to convey information, form or shape opinions, and even influence or motivate political participation.

The purpose of this course will be to explore the connections between comedy and satire, and politics. As American politics have become more hyper-partisan and bitter, it would seem that political comedy has increased in attention, becoming more popular. In 2009, a TIME Online poll cited Jon Stewart as the most trusted news anchor since the death of Walter Cronkite. A “fake” news program on a cable comedy channel became a legitimate source of news, including spawning multiple offspring. At a time when politicians, including the president, members of Congress, and pundits accuse actual news of being fake, can fake news inform and influence public discourse, policy debates, and politics?

This course will examine the rise of political comedy in the modern era, beginning in the 1960s by examining how stand-up comedians began to use their platform to address social and political issues, leading to television comedy like the Smothers Brothers. Moving through time to the establishment of Saturday Night Live, to the late night comedy legends, to the Daily Show and its offshoots. The course will also examine other outlets beyond television and stand-up, including print and political cartoons, online comedy websites like the Onion, and other outlets. A live performance by the Capitol Steps will be included, and the class will attend together the night before the November election. (Unless we can’t because of COVID-19)

Course Objectives

The goal of the course is to promote a new appreciation for and understanding of the influence political comedy has on our politics. In particular:

- How political comedy can influence behavior and shape opinion
- How satire and fake news can be just as, or more, impactful than traditional news sources
- How political actors (candidates and elected officials) can use political comedy to their advantage
- Critically think about, analyze, and evaluate how information – like comedy and satire – influence our public discourse, policymaking, and politics
- How the use of political comedy, in all its forms, has changed over time
Recommended Text

Weekly readings, videos, and websites will be provided to you by the instructor or linked in the syllabus.

Course Requirements

1. This course will be run seminar style, which means it will focus mainly on discussion. It is important that read and watch the required material prior to coming to class so that you will be able to discuss the material. The required material covers a host of controversial topics and issues, and includes the use of colorful and/or foul language, so be prepared. Language matters in public discourse, and specific words or phrases can be impactful at critical moments, also known as comedic timing. Bottom line – we only meet for one hour per week, so come to class prepared.

The following assignment is required for the course:

- Presentation: The last few weeks of the semester, you will be required to give a 5-7 minute presentation to the class. The presentation will be on material related to the content of the course. The presentation is up to you, meaning I will give you leeway in what you want to present. It can be a comedy sketch (with others in the course), a talk, a paper, interpretive dance. Think about issues we covered in class, or issues, topics, outlets, comedians that were not covered. Presentations can be done individually or in groups.

Grading Distribution

Class participation and attendance:

50% Presentation: 50%

Grades will be assigned based on the following scale:

| 100 – 93% = A | 82 – 80% = B- | 69 – 68% = D+ |
| 92 – 90% = A- | 79 -78% = C+ | 67 – 63% = D |
| 89 – 88% = B+ | 77 – 73% = C | 62 – 60% = D- |
| 87 – 83% = B | 72 – 70% = C- | 59% and Below = F |
Attendance/Participation/Conduct

Assignments are expected to be turned in on the due date, either by hard copy, submitted through Canvas (UF e-learning), or email. One letter grade per day (not class days) will be taken off for late papers unless you have obtained prior approval for a different date due to special circumstances or have a documented illness or family emergency. Please do not hesitate to let me know if you have some type of special circumstance, but you must do so before the due date unless it is an emergency. Communication is key. Attendance, assignments, and make-up work will adhere to UF policies and standards, available here:
https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.asp
Your grade for class participation depends not only on physical presence (attendance is mandatory), but also your active participation in class and your "class manners." This means being on time, refraining from side discussions and other distracting behavior and respecting each other’s viewpoints. We will be discussing controversial issues about which many people have strong opinions and beliefs so mutual respect is critical for the success of the class. It is fine to challenge someone’s ideas/positions, but personal attacks will not be tolerated.

Students with Disabilities: If you have special needs, you must register with the Disability Resource Center, https://drc.dso.ufl.edu/, so that you can be provided the necessary accommodations to ensure your success. You must inform me at the beginning of the semester and provide me with a copy of your letter. I will work with you to be successful in this course.

Please do not ask me specific questions about your assignments or grades outside of office hours. Federal privacy rules (FERPA) prohibit any discussion that can be heard by others. FERPA also prohibits me from sending grades through e-mail.

Honor Code of Conduct: UF students are expected to uphold the highest standards of academic honesty. Requirements, expectations, and violations can be found here: https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/1617/advising/info/student-honor-code.aspx. It is your responsibility to know UF policies and procedures, and you should hold yourself to the highest standards.

Online Course Evaluations: Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Click here for guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens, and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via ufl.bluera.com/ufl/. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students here.
