Course Overview:

The Honors Spirituality and Health course is intended for all students, particularly those engaged in pre-medical, pre-counseling or health-related majors, who are interested in exploring the interface of spirituality and the health sciences. Interest in the intersection of spirituality and health is rapidly growing in our society, as we seek meaning and purpose in our lives and a more holistic approach to our wellness and our health challenges. Course topics will include: stress reduction through non-judgmental living in the present moment (mindfulness); mind-body relationships; links between religion/spirituality and health; brain-based drug addiction and the spiritually based 12-step program; scientific evaluation of the impact of prayer on our health; spiritual approaches to our lives; lessons on living from those who are dying; and stories that heal. The course is, at its heart, a semester-long, student-centered, dialogue about how various aspects of spirituality impact our health at the level of body, mind, and spirit.

Course Objectives: By the end of the course, students will be able to do the following.

- 1) Discuss the qualities of a spiritual individual and definitions of “spirituality”;
- 2) Compare and contrast spirituality with health, religion, and science;
- 3) Discuss the concept of mindfulness, its application to everyday living, and the factors that prevent us from being mindful;
- 4) Discuss the role of mindfulness in interrelationships, either personal or professional;
- 5) Describe Dossey’s three eras of medicine, including concepts of mind-body relations;
- 6) Assess different perspectives and definitions of “health”;
- 7) Describe Jeff Levin’s links between spirituality/religion and health;
- 8) Discuss addiction as a biological disease (at least in part) and the spiritual aspects of the 12-step program as a therapeutic intervention;
- 9) Discuss what prayer is and how its effects on health can be evaluated scientifically;
- 10) Discuss Roger Walsh’s essential spirituality – the seven spiritual approaches to our lives;
- 11) Describe Paul Kalanithi’s challenges to living (his work) and to dying
- 12) Discuss how telling and listening to stories, including life’s challenges, can be healing;
- 13) Discuss a potential expansion of our personal belief systems to incorporate a holistic view of the entire human being;
- 14) Appreciate healthcare as applied spirituality.

Requirements, Assessment, and Grades:

I - Attendance, Participation, and Internet Research Project: 20%;

- 1) You are expected to complete assigned readings prior to each class.
- 2) Attendance will be taken each class. You may miss 1 class or 2 halves; more than that you will lose points. Please plan your Wednesday evenings accordingly.
- 3) The course is a semester-long, student-centered conversation, facilitated by the Course Director, about the “gray” areas of life. We hope to facilitate a “collective self-discovery” during this course through our group discussions. As such, participation from each student is critical.
- 4) Starting in the fourth week and continuing for the remainder of the course, we will have three five-minute student presentations based on internet research. Each student will present a unique website and discuss a new aspect of a topic that has been covered in class.

II - There will be 5 4-page papers, each worth 16% (80% total). The papers are based on an integration of your reflections, understanding, and insights of our readings and classroom discussions.

UF Class Attendance Policies:

Requirements for class attendance and make-up exams, assignments, and other work in this course are consistent with university policies that can be found at:

<https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx>

Students with Disabilities:

Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter which must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodation. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester.

UF Grading Policies:

<https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/grades.aspx>.

Course Evaluation:

Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing online evaluations at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results/>

Class Culture:

- 1) This is a paperless course. All discussion materials, other than the books, will be sent to the students as a PDF. The reflection papers will be emailed to the Course Director as a WORD document (.doc or .docx only).
- 2) Out of respect for each student’s contributions to our discussions, we will give everyone our full attention. Please do not check your cell phone or computer during class time. There will be a break during each class session.
