Course Description

“The One Score to Rule Them All” is an interdisciplinary (Un)Common Arts course dedicated to examining how Howard Shore’s music in Peter Jackson’s film trilogy adaptation of The Lord of the Rings (2001–03) functions as an essential component of cinematic storytelling, while reflecting the themes, structures, and cultural foundations of J. R. R. Tolkien’s original literary works (1954–55).

The course explores the role of music in The Lord of the Rings by examining how Shore’s score shapes narrative, supports character development, and contributes to the construction of Middle-earth on film through technique, cultural reference, and thematic continuity. Students will engage in active listening, critical viewing, and collaborative discussion to develop a nuanced understanding of how music operates within cinematic and multimedia storytelling. By the end of the course, students will have developed the analytical vocabulary, critical listening skills, and interdisciplinary frameworks necessary to examine how music functions within narrative media, including—but not limited to—The Lord of the Rings. Students will be prepared to apply these tools to works of their own choosing, considering how music interacts with visual, literary, and cultural elements in shaping narrative meaning and interpretation.

Course Objectives

- 1. Understanding Film Scoring Techniques and History: This course will examine the musical techniques used to shape narrative and emotional landscape of film, with particular attention to how Shore employs leitmotifs, orchestration, and thematic development to enhance storytelling. In doing so, this course will also explore the historical evolution of film scoring techniques, from its roots in opera and early cinematic practices to its role in contemporary multimedia.
- 2. Developing Active Listening Skills: This course will equip students with the vocabulary, analytical frameworks, and exemplary resources necessary to develop, practice, and apply active listening skills. Students will use these skills to engage in informed, thoughtful discussions of musical media—including film, television, video games, and other narrative forms. Through this process, the course aims to foster a deeper appreciation for the complexity, craftsmanship, and expressive power of musical scores across all genres.
- 3. Exploring Cultural and Historical Context: This course will examine how Shore integrates elements from diverse musical traditions and instruments to reflect the inspirations behind the rich and varied cultures of Middle-earth, emphasizing how these musical choices support contemporary world-building with historical parallels.
- 4. Musical Narrative, Character, and Meaning: This course will discuss how music functions as a narrative force within film by outlining character identity, thematic meaning, and emotional continuity. Focusing on Shore's score for The Lord of the Rings, the course will examine how leitmotifs operate as evolving narrative signifiers—how nuances of orchestration, harmony, and thematic structure can reflect character development, moral conflict, fellowship, corruption of power, and mortality. Through active listening and discussion, students will analyze how these recurring musical ideas contribute to long-form storytelling and deepen audience engagement with the narrative.
- 5. Interdisciplinary Connections: Students will investigate how Shore's music interacts with visual storytelling, literary sources, and the broader mythology of The Lord of the Rings, emphasizing the role of music as an integral component of interdisciplinary narrative construction in multimedia.

Recommended Materials

Students should acquire access to both the Complete Recordings and the Original Motion Picture Soundtrack for all three of the Lord of the Rings films (free trials and student rates are available through Spotify, Apple Music, YouTube Music, etc...) for convenient listening on their own. Downloadable files of these soundtracks are available on canvas otherwise.

Grading Policy

55% – Attendance and Participation: Attendance is mandatory—please email in advance if you will be missing class. See UF Academic Regulations and Policies for more information regarding excused absences. Participation will be assessed based on students' engagement with weekly in-class discussions and their ability to engage respectfully with other students (i.e. listening while others are speaking, not using cellphones in class, etc.).

30% – Final Presentation: Students will complete a project (optional format) on a score from a film, TV show, or videogame of their choosing. The project must be submitted prior to presenting. Students will be assessed on their ability to interpret the score and integrate topics they learned during the semester, as well as their ability to present effectively. More information can be found on Canvas.

15% – Pre-Class Assignments: Prior to each class, supplemental material on the topic of the week will be posted on Canvas. Students are expected to watch all videos or listen to all recordings and complete a discussion post. The prompts for the post will vary. These should not take long and they are only there to act as a guide for the in-class discussion, so they will be graded on completion (note that the instructors WILL read the content).

Honors: A minimum grade of B is required to earn Academic points towards Honors Completion Requirements. Once you have earned your final grade in this course, please upload the course information and final grade from your Unofficial Transcript into your Honors Canvas Cohort: Honors Requirements module to earn Honors Milestone / Completion credit.

University grading policy for assigning grade points can be found here.

University of Florida Honesty Policy

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states, "We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code." On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: "On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment." The Honor Code specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor or TAs in this class.

Students Requiring Accommodations

Students with disabilities who experience learning barriers and would like to request academic accommodations should connect with the Disability Resource Center by visiting their website. It is important for students to share their accommodation letter with their instructor and discuss their access needs as early as possible in the semester.

Course Evaluations

Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online through GatorEvals. Guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner is available here. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or here. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students here.

In-Class Recordings

Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor.

A “class lecture” is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code.
